5. Comments:

5.1) Please identify what you perceive to be the real strengths and weaknesses of this teaching assistant and course.

- Tan was very knowledgable on the subject and worked through practice problems each session. Unfortunately, as English is not her first language, it was sometimes difficult for her to communicate with students, especially during attendance which took up a fairly considerate portion of class time as students could not understand what name she was calling.
- The TA understood her job to help us understand and during the discussion periods, she went over numerous practice examples and problems. However, there were sometimes some communication problems that made learning it a little bit difficult.
- The strength of the TA was she was knowledgeable about the course material, however the teacher wasn't able to connect with her students, nobody could understand her, she trouble communicating the assignment and help us understand course material. The TA made the class harder instead of helping she didn't explain anything this the worst TA I ever had.
